Fifth Graders Reach for the Stars at the Planetarium

Fifth-grade students from Morven Elementary School recently took their learning to a whole new level during an educational trip to the Rotary Planetarium in Wadesboro, where science and space came together for an unforgettable experience.

The students arrived full of excitement and curiosity as they explored the wonders of the universe, from distant planets to dazzling stars. Anticipation filled the room as they prepared to discover new concepts, ask big questions, and see science come alive beyond the classroom walls.

Teachers said the students' enthusiasm made the experience especially meaningful, as their eagerness to learn and engage turned the visit into more than just a field trip. The hands-on exposure helped reinforce classroom lessons while sparking imagination and a deeper interest in science.

The visit is one of many opportunities this school year designed to encourage growth, curiosity, and lifelong learning among Morven Elementary students. With experiences like this, the fifth graders, as well as the other students at MES, are well on their way to a year filled with knowledge, discovery, and truly out-of-this-world learning.

NC Pre-K Applications Open for the 2025–2026 School Year

The Anson County Partnership for Children is now accepting applications for the 2025–2026 North Carolina Pre-K program, offering eligible families the opportunity to enroll their children in high-quality early childhood education at no cost.

The NC Pre-K program is designed to prepare children for kindergarten by supporting early learning, social development, and school readiness in a structured and nurturing environment. The program serves qualifying four-year-old children and focuses on building a strong foundation for future academic success.

Parents & guardians interested in determining eligibility for free NC Pre-K programming are encouraged to contact the Anson County Partnership for Children for more information and application assistance.

The Partnership's office is located at 115 East Morgan Street in Wadesboro. Families may also call 704-694-4036 or visit ansonchildren.org for additional details about qualifications, enrollment, and available program options.

The NC Pre-K program is part of a statewide effort to support young learners and families by providing access to early education opportunities that promote long-term success in school and beyond.
