Sixteen students at Anson New Tech High School, looking for greater opportunities for community service and involvement, have established a Junior Civitan Club. The club, which has been meeting on an informal basis since Thanksgiving, received its charter on Friday, March 2nd.

The charter ceremony, overseen by district coordinator Pat Laney, was held at the Wadesboro Civitan Scout Hut. Fourteen students and their faculty advisor, Amy Stewart, participated in the charter ceremony and celebratory luncheon. Former Civitan Governor Bob Jones and five members of the Wadesboro Civitan Club, Harvey Tucker, John Greene, Rick Beas, Rufus Getzen, and Yates Almond, also participated in the ceremony. Beam, a retired teacher who knows many of the New Tech students, is serving as liaison between the Wadesboro Club and the Anson New Tech Junior Civitans.

Co-presidents Ciarr Melton and Cameron Kelly received lapel pins identifying them as club presidents. John and Rosemary Greene also gave the club a banner which they can use to promote their club.
