

HOLLA!'s Tennis Program is Now in Full Swing

On Friday afternoons, beginning at 5 p.m. and Saturday mornings at 9 a.m. you can hear and feel the excitement of children learning the game of tennis at the Holla Center in Morven. Under the tutelage of tennis professional Alan Blackwell, Holla is now an official member of the United States Tennis Association and the North Carolina Center For Afterschool Programs (NCCAP). By partnering with these two agencies Holla is afforded the benefits of tennis equipment, certified instruction and exposure to the professional tennis community.

"The resources are invaluable in terms of providing the best tennis has to offer the participants of our tennis program," said Alex Gaddy, activities director for the Holla Center.

The Holla tennis program is a feature of the Holla Let's MOVE Project to fight obesity among Anson County's youth. The Let's MOVE project is funded by the Kate B. Reynolds Charitable Trust and provides free karate, fitness and tennis classes to youth, with cheerleading classes to soon be added to the list.

All of the Holla Let's MOVE Program's features are free to youth ages 6 to 18. Adult classes are also available.

For more information on the classes as well as youth sponsorship information, you can call the Holla Center at 704-851-3144.

Anson Students Win Civitan Scholarships

Four Anson County students, Christopher Aaron Allen and Doua Jim Lor of Polkton, and Ciara F. Melton and Tiffany Leigh Treadaway of Wadesboro, were awarded Civitan scholarships at District High School Scholarship night.

Each received a thousand dollar scholarship.

Allen, a recent graduate of Anson Early College, intends to major in English at UNC-Greensboro before pursuing a degree in law. He was awarded the Larry Crandell Civitan Scholarship.

Lor, also a graduate of Anson Early College, plans to study Biology at NC State University. Melton, who is completing her studies at Anson New Tech High School, received a Civitan scholarship. She plans to study Marine Biology at UNC-Wilmington.

Treadaway hopes to become a project manager after studying Systems Engineering at UNC-Charlotte. She completed her studies at Anson Early College. Two of the scholarships honor deceased Civitans who were especially enthusiastic in supporting the youth of Anson County.

According to the scholarship committee of Wadesboro Civitan Club all four students were outstanding scholarship candidates. The committee thinks that they will be successful in their college studies and in their lives after graduation, making their families and community proud of their contributions.
