Remembering.....
 By Ed McBride

1922 Ansonville High School

The Ansonville High School building was built in 1922 - the same year that I was born.

Of course there have been many changes. Some of those changes included landscaping, shrubbery, tennis courts (outside), plus paving the driveway around the school entrance. Then, in the mid-1930's, the General Smith funds became available and the agriculture building was built. I know that well because several of us worked part of our summer 'star drilling' by hand in the cement basement floor to bolt down all the power tools such as table saws, drill press, jointer, shaper, etc. If there were any power tools to do the job then, we sure did not have them!!

The brick house on the corner was used for the Home Economics Department - all of which was a great addition for the Ansonville School...and all this to tell you about the brick in the picture above.

The school building was torn down, and i was able to get each of my 1939 graduating class members a brick from the building. I lettered each brick with 'Ansonville High School, Class of 1939' - the largest class ever to graduate there with a grand total of 32.

We had another class reunion on September 10, 1994 - had a good turn out, but as of today, there are only three of us living: Lucy Edwards Martin, Frank Page Dunlap, and 'me' - Ed McBride, Jr.

Again and again, many thanks to all of our teachers, staff, school boards, and those who helped to make our lives better by giving of their best, day by day!!
