North Carolina Colleges Waive Application Fees Through October 25

College Application Week offers students an opportunity to apply to dozens of colleges and universities without paying application fees

Anson County students considering college have an opportunity to save money this week as dozens of North Carolina colleges and universities waive their application fees during College Application Week, October 19 through 25.

The annual event, coordinated through College Foundation of North Carolina (CFNC), allows eligible students to submit applications to participating institutions without paying the usual application fees. The fee-waiver period began Monday, October 19 at 7:30 a.m. and ends Sunday, October 25 at 5 p.m.

Participating schools include East Carolina University, Western Carolina University, North Carolina A&T State University, North Carolina Central University, UNC Pembroke, UNC Asheville, Fayetteville State University, Winston-Salem State University, Elizabeth City State University and numerous private colleges.

All 58 North Carolina community colleges are also participating, including South Piedmont Community College, which serves Anson and Union counties.

Among the private institutions on the participating list are Wingate University, Pfeiffer University, Catawba College, Campbell University, Gardner-Webb University, High Point University, Methodist University, Queens University of Charlotte, Lenoir-Rhyne University and many others.

Students should visit www.CFNC.org/apply to begin the application process and review the latest list of participating institutions. Eligibility and fee-waiver availability may vary depending on whether a student is applying as a first-year, transfer or readmission applicant.

Some colleges that are not participating in the general fee waiver may accept other application fee waivers through ACT, SAT or the National Association for College Admission Counseling (NACAC).

CFNC also provides free resources to help students and families explore colleges, plan for higher education, apply for admission and learn about financial aid.

With application fees at multiple colleges potentially adding up quickly, College Application Week offers students an opportunity to explore their options without the usual application expenses. But don't wait until the last minute. The fee-waiver opportunity ends Sunday afternoon, October 25.

One particularly useful detail from CFNC: Students should begin their applications through CFNC.org, even if a college also accepts the Common App or another application system. CFNC says that is the way to ensure the advertised fee waiver is applied at participating institutions.

CFNC also offers application assistance at 866-866-2362.

The North Carolina State Education Assistance Authority reports that more than 25,000 applicants submitted over 66,000 college applications through CFNC during last year's College Application Week.

Feed My Lambs to Host Food, Fun & Fundraising Sat.

Live music, food trucks, games & family activities support local food assistance

Feed My Lambs invites everyone to enjoy a day of food, music, games and fellowship on Saturday, October 24, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Food, Fun and Fundraising event will be held in the organization's parking lot at 2290 U.S. Highway 74 West in Wadesboro.

Activities will include food trucks and vendors, a cake walk, cornhole, pie throwing and family games. Live entertainment will feature Adam and Ashley Strings, Edenfield Family Music and Telesha Heilig.

Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, enjoy the music and spend time with friends and neighbors. And don't forget the cake walk, where taking home dessert is practically an act of charity!

All proceeds will benefit Feed My Lambs and its ongoing efforts to provide food assistance to local families in need.

The event's motto says it all: "Come for the Food, Stay for the Fun, Give for the Cause!"
